What do volunteering, charity and diversity mean for the students in 144 Secondary School „Narodni Buditeli“?

Volunteering is one of the things that will save the world. It is an extremely important quality we have but unfortunately not everyone uses it. Volunteering is a manifestation of love and respect for people. What we all have to understand is that people need to be supported and that we cannot live without each other. So instead of fighting, why not live in peace, humanity and kindness!?

Vanina, class 10B

Volunteering is described as an unpaid activity where someone gives their time to help a non-profit organization or an individual they are not related to. One of the better-known benefits of volunteering is the impact on the community. Unpaid volunteers are often the glue that holds a community together. Volunteering allows you to connect to your community and make it a better place to live in.

Mariam, class 10B

I think volunteering is important because we help a cause, lend a helping hand or support an organization in need. Being a volunteer means that you are offering something which is neither your obligation nor you are asked for. Some of the benefits of being a volunteer are that you gain confidence, make new friends, learn new skills, and feel being a part of the community. Helping people makes the difference.

Teodora, class 9B

Diversity for me is something that allows me to have a choice. You can find it in many areas and gives freedom to the will. What we want to do, buy, eat, read, watch and so on... that is the diversity. I am convinced that without diversity life will be dull and boring. And above all, I think it is important to have diversity when choosing a job which will give you satisfaction of what you are doing.

Lyudmila, class 10B

Diversity for me is something that can be found in our everyday lives. I go to school and learn new and interesting things but sometimes I meet different people with their various professions and lifestyles. For example, yesterday I met a kind woman, who told me how she started learning Photography and Arts. I listened to her with interest because in my opinion it is difficult to master a profession as it takes great dedication and work.

Gergana, class 10B

Diversity for me means to do something you love, such as having fun with friends, going to the cinema, reading a book, walking in a beautiful place. It also includes sightseeing in another city, going on holiday in a lovely and peaceful place. Diversity is a way to change your daily life. If we do the same things every day our life will be boring. So, I think that everybody needs diversity and entertainment in different ways.
